

What We Do and Who We Serve

For over 35 years, Hurley Write, Inc., a certified women-owned business, has been working with professional engineers to help them hone their writing and presentations skills. We also work with engineering firms to help them uncover, and fix, blind spots in terms of their communication.

Problems We Solve

We help engineering companies

- Decide if AI is right for them (and help them implement it)
- Get documents out the door faster
- Win more proposals
- Determine what communication strategies will save them time, money, and resources

If you're looking for a customized solution to solve your communication issues, we can help!

Whether you're looking for a writing workshop or an entire program, we've got you covered.
